JOBS

1 University of Florida - Assistant Professor - Human Rights, Peace, and Justice in Latin America

The Center for Latin American Studies at the University of Florida invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor with a teaching and research focus on questions of human rights, transitional justice, peace and conflict/post-conflict, and related fields. We are particularly interested in candidates whose work addresses how these areas are interconnected. We seek applicants with superior promise who combine rigorous scholarship with excellence in teaching, and who can contribute to one or more of the Center's interdisciplinary research and training initiatives. Candidates should demonstrate a commitment to work collaboratively across disciplinary boundaries with faculty and students from diverse backgrounds and perspectives. We strongly encourage applicants from historically underrepresented groups in the profession. Candidates should have their Ph.D. in hand or near completion at the time of hiring. The successful candidate will hold a full-time appointment in the Center and will report to the Director of the Center for Latin American Studies. (See flyer attached) committee will begin reviewing applications February 15, 2018.

CONFERENCES: Call for Papers

1 Call for Paper. The Florida Dispute Resolution Center \(DRC\) 2018 Conference: Make it Matter, Promoting Mediator Professionalism, August 9-11, 2018 – Orlando, FL

The Florida Dispute Resolution Center (DRC) is pleased to announce that we are accepting workshop proposals for our Annual DRC Conference: Make it Matter, Promoting Mediator Professionalism, August 9-11, 2018, at the JW Marriott Grande Lakes, Orlando. Traditionally, over 900 ADR professionals attend the two day event to enhance their knowledge, sharpen their skills, and network with colleagues from across the state.

The DRC is seeking basic, intermediate and advanced sessions in all areas of mediator practice. Each workshop is 75 minutes with seating for 50 to 125 attendees per session. In order to share your expertise with as many practitioners as possible, we would like to schedule each presentation twice. For that level of participation, the DRC will waive the $195 conference registration fee for the first two presenters listed. If for some reason your presentation is only scheduled once, the DRC will still waive the full $195 conference registration fee for the first two presenters listed. Workshops on mediator ethics, domestic violence, and appellate practice are especially appealing.

If you are interested in joining the DRC conference faculty, please submit the Call for Proposal before the February 20, 2018, deadline. As part of the proposal process, you will be asked to provide, among other items, a summary and outline of your workshop description including learning objectives. Workshop selections and presenter notification will occur in late March. February 20, 2018, deadline.

2 Call for Paper - "What are the most cost-effective approaches to preventing war and maintaining peace?" February 28, 2018. Peace Building and Cost Effectiveness

Despite the efforts of peacebuilding researchers, policy makers, and practitioners, the human suffering and economic waste caused by war are severe. Last year, the cost of armed conflict globally was estimated at $14.2 trillion. The resources of the peacebuilding community are only a tiny fraction of what is spent on war. It is critically important that limited funds available be spent wisely.

Even with progress on monitoring and evaluation, one metric in particular remains little researched or understood: cost-effectiveness. Little hard data exists to indicate where effort and money will do the most good. The primary objective of this research is to provide funders and practitioners with better information on which to base resource allocation decisions.

Next Steps

Please send a proposal of no more than 3 pages to Jessica Berns (jessbberns@gmail.com) by Feb 28. Applications will be considered on a rolling basis. The proposal should articulate a plan to address this research question, propose a methodology (including time frame) and provide the name of the student to conduct the research and her/his research advisor. Please propose ways the research findings can be presented in addition to a final, written report (eg: slide show, one page overview, etc). Please send a resume, CV, or profile of both the proposed student and advisor.

Research Scope

Milt Lauenstein will fund MA or PhD level initial research.

This current call for proposals is focused and time limited desk research. There is no funding for travel. The research should begin as soon as possible. A final report is expected within four months from start date of research. Depending on the strength of the proposal, possible research outcomes, and the time frame proposed, a gift of between $4,000 and $7,000. is available. The funds are entirely for the student researcher, with no contribution for overhead or faculty involvement.

Cut-off February 28, 2018

8 CALL FOR PAPERS - 2018 International Conference on Ethnic and Religious Conflict Resolution and Peacebuilding

The International Center for Ethno-Religious Mediation believes that an international conference on the Traditional Systems of Conflict Resolution is highly needed at this crucial time in world history. The traditional rulers are the custodians of peace at the grassroots level, and for a long time, the international community has ignored them and their wealth of knowledge and wisdom in the areas of conflict resolution and peacebuilding. It is high time we included the traditional rulers and indigenous leaders in the discussion on international peace and security. It is high time we gave them the opportunity to contribute to our overall knowledge of conflict resolution, peacemaking and peacebuilding.

Abstract Submission Deadline is Friday, June 29, 2018.

4  Lemkin Summit to End Genocide and Mass Atrocities 2018 - February 10 - 12, 2018

Join the Enough Project and Jewish World Watch for The Lemkin Summit to End Genocide and Mass Atrocities, this year's 3-Day conference bringing students and community leaders at the forefront of the anti-atrocity movement to D.C. for a weekend of learning and action. Together, we will hear from expert panels and guest speakers on topics including:

- U.S. government tools for preventing and responding to genocide and mass atrocities
- Financial tools to counter the nexus of conflict and corruption
- The current dynamics in various conflicts areas
- Strategies for making a difference when you return home

Participants will network with one another, receive advocacy training, and learn how to leverage their networks to engage their communities and policymakers in taking action. The conference will culminate in a lobby day on Capitol Hill.

The Lemkin Summit is named in honor of Raphael Lemkin, a Polish-Jewish lawyer who was an ardent activist and tireless defender of human rights. Lemkin coined the term "genocide" in 1944, lobbied the UN for genocide to be added to international law, and participated in the drafting of the Convention on the Prevention and Punishment of the Crime of Genocide.

Deadline Friday, November 10, 2017

6 Call for Articles: Displacement in the Middle East \(Publication Due out February 2018\)

This issue of FMR will provide a forum for practitioners, advocates, policymakers, researchers and those directly affected by the issues to share experience, debate perspectives and offer recommendations. In particular, the FMR Editors are looking for practice-oriented submissions, reflecting a diverse range of experience and opinions.

The Middle East currently is both the source and recipient of the largest numbers of refugees and internally displaced persons (IDPs) globally. While Syria and Yemen are at the core of the largest-scale displacements at the moment, there is significant displacement in and from other countries too, as far apart as Iraq and Libya. In the longer term, there are now third- or fourth-generation Palestinian refugees. While the Syrian crisis is now in its seventh year and the number of registered refugees from Syria nears five million, others in the region – from Iraq and Palestine, as well as refugees coming from outside the region, such as Afghans, Sudanese and Somalis – remain in situations of protracted displacement, whether as refugees in neighboring countries or third countries, or as internally displaced persons. Whether they bring costs or opportunities, all those who are displaced are in need of protection

2 Government Accountability Office \(GAO\) Experiential \(16wks\) opportunity in Washington DC

The U.S. Government Accountability Office (GAO) is an independent, nonpartisan agency that works for Congress. Often called the "congressional watchdog," GAO investigates how the federal government spends taxpayer dollars.

Our Mission is to support the Congress in meeting its constitutional responsibilities and to help improve the performance and ensure the accountability of the federal government for the benefit of the American people. We provide Congress with timely information that is objective, fact-based, nonpartisan, no ideological, fair, and balanced.

Our Core Values of accountability, integrity, and reliability are reflected in all of the work we do. We operate under strict professional standards of review and referencing; all facts and analyses in our work are thoroughly checked for accuracy. In addition, our audit policies are consistent with the Fundamental Auditing Principles (Level 3) of the International Standards of Supreme Audit Institutions.

Our Work is done at the request of congressional committees or subcommittees or is mandated by public laws or committee reports. We also undertake research under the authority of the Comptroller General. We support congressional oversight by

- auditing agency operations to determine whether federal funds are being spent efficiently and effectively;
- investigating allegations of illegal and improper activities;
- reporting on how well government programs and policies are meeting their objectives;
- performing policy analyses and outlining options for congressional consideration; and
- issuing legal decisions and opinions, such as bid protest rulings and reports on agency rules.

We advise Congress and the heads of executive agencies about ways to make government more efficient, effective, ethical, equitable and responsive.

Our work leads to laws and acts that improve government operations, saving the government and taxpayers billions of dollars.

GAO is consistently ranked one of Best Places to Work in the Federal Government on the Partnership for Public Service's annual list.

This opportunity is available in the summer and Fall.
