2 Training Manager - Dispute Resolution Center of King County - Seattle, WA

The Dispute Resolution Center of King County (DRC) is a non-profit, 501(c)(3) agency established in 1986 as authorized by state statute RCW 7.75. The DRC provides alternative dispute resolution (ADR) services and training to the people of the most populous county in Washington State, King County. Services include affordable mediation, facilitation, trainings and restorative practices. The DRC operates with a small staff and a pool of professional mediators and skilled volunteers who mediate more than 1,000 disputes each year. In the interest of providing full access to mediation services, fees are based on a sliding scale in accordance with ability to pay. Disputes mediated include family cases, foreclosure prevention, business-consumer, landlord-tenant, elder care, workplace, and neighbor-neighbor. Mediation services are available at King County Small Claims Court and directly through the agency.

Training Manager

The Training Manager supervises and manages the agency's training activities including Basic Mediation Trainings (BMT), Practicum (a specialized mediation skills certification program), continuing education and customized workshops, as well as the professional development needs of DRC staff. The Training Manager supervises all training personnel and engages collaboratively with DRC staff, volunteers, board, contract trainers and coaches.

6 Adjunct Faculty - Conflict Transformation: Theory and Practice Naropa University - Boulder, CO

Job Summary: The BA Peace Studies degree program seeks to hire an adjunct faculty member to teach the undergraduate level course PAX 340: Conflict Transformation: Theory and Practice in the Fall 2018 semester. This is a 3-credit course, scheduled to meet Tuesdays from 3:00 - 6:00pm on Naropa's Arapahoe Campus.

Course Description: An exploration of theories and practices of conflict transformation in a range of settings and locations. The course examines interpersonal and structural dynamics of conflict, building capacities to work effectively with individuals and small groups and studying attempts to end cycles of violence, revenge, and trauma at the national and international level. We investigate our own assumptions about conflict, the potency of cultural and religious differences, the complexities of intervention, and the possibility of transformation. We consider the role of curiosity, creativity, and the moral imagination in peacebuilding. Students acquire beginning level skills in mediation and gain practical experience mediating low-stakes conflicts.

Applications: Application review begins immediately and continues until positions are filled. Qualified candidates should apply online include their resume and a one-page statement explaining why they are interested in teaching this course and how their background and skills will inform their pedagogical approach.

CONFERENCES: Call for Papers

1 International Center on Nonviolent Conflict

ICNC is pleased to announce its fourth annual Monograph Awards call for proposals. The goals of the award are to support research and writing that:

- develops robust conceptual frameworks for understanding the nature, dynamics, power and impact of civil resistance movements;
- enhances the strategic use of civil resistance;
- produces relevant findings for our target readership: academics, activists and organizers, civil society professionals, the policy and developmental communities, and journalists.

In 2018, up to four awards, each worth $5,000, will be offered to prospective authors who have background in the study and/or practice of civil resistance and excel in writing accessibly (for general and academic audiences). We encourage applications that focus on under-researched or under-published topics in the field of civil resistance.

Specifically, ICNC is interested in receiving monograph proposals that pertain to our priority research topics and other themes, of particular interest to our diverse target readership.

In addition to presenting ground-breaking analyses or findings, monographs are also expected to present general and specific recommendations relevant for our target readership.

ICNC Monograph drafts go through an external review process before they are accepted for publication. The reviews are conducted by experts in the field, including though not limited to the ICNC academic advisors.

The proposal submission deadline: April 1, 2018.

Please visit our call page for more information and to apply!

2 Call for Paper: Peace Operations and Peace Agreements: Experiences from the Global South – May 28, 2018 – Rio de Janeiro, Brazil

How do peace operations impact the durability of (mediated) peace agreements? Different dimensions of the relationship between peace operations, international mediation and the durability of peace will be explored in this workshop, which will promote the exchange of ideas and experiences between academics and practitioners from different regions.

Four sessions are planned to cover the following topics:

- Session 1: Conflict Environment: peace operations as humanitarian interventions
- Session 2: National, regional and global interests in peace operations: contributions from case studies
- Session 3: Opportunities and challenges for peacebuilding: experiences from Colombia
- Session 4: “Soft power” and peace operations: the Brazilian experience

Panelists will be invited to make short propositions or arguments (10-12 minutes) along the lines of the proposed sessions in order to stimulate discussions. Audience members will be selected according to their expertise and may also have the opportunity to share their thoughts, insights and experiences during all sessions. All participants are expected to actively take part on the debates. If you have a paper on the topic, a policy document or a short presentation, you will also be able to share it with other participants. Places are limited to 40 participants in total.

6 Call for Papers: Peace Journalist Magazine

Colleagues:

Greetings from Ethiopia, where I'm working on a peace journalism project in conjunction with the U.S. State Dept. and the University of Gondar.

I'm writing with my semi-annual call for papers for the Peace Journalist magazine. We seek submissions on peace journalism projects, research, etc. However, we do not seek general submissions about peace projects, unless they entail a media angle.

Submissions should be 500-1500 words, and sent to steve.youngblood@park.edu by March 5. Photos are welcome.

For more about the magazine, and our Center for Global Peace Journalism, please see www.park.edu/peacecenter.

7 CALL FOR PAPERS - 2018 International Conference on Ethnic and Religious Conflict Resolution and Peacebuilding

The International Center for Ethno-Religious Mediation believes that an international conference on the Traditional Systems of Conflict Resolution is highly needed at this crucial time in world history. The traditional rulers are the custodians of peace at the grassroots level, and for a long time, the international community has ignored them and their wealth of knowledge and wisdom in the areas of conflict resolution and peacebuilding. It is high time we included the traditional rulers and indigenous leaders in the discussion on international peace and security. It is high time we gave them the opportunity to contribute to our overall knowledge of conflict resolution, peacemaking and peacebuilding.

12 Call for Articles: Displacement in the Middle East \(Publication Due out February 2018\)

This issue of FMR will provide a forum for practitioners, advocates, policymakers, researchers and those directly affected by the issues to share experience, debate perspectives and offer recommendations. In particular, the FMR Editors are looking for practice-oriented submissions, reflecting a diverse range of experience and opinions.

The Middle East currently is both the source and recipient of the largest numbers of refugees and internally displaced persons (IDPs) globally. While Syria and Yemen are at the core of the largest-scale displacements at the moment, there is significant displacement in and from other countries too, as far apart as Iraq and Libya. In the longer term, there are now third- or fourth-generation Palestinian refugees. While the Syrian crisis is now in its seventh year and the number of registered refugees from Syria nears five million, others in the region – from Iraq and Palestine, as well as refugees coming from outside the region, such as Afghans, Sudanese and Somalis – remain in situations of protracted displacement, whether as refugees in neighboring countries or third countries, or as internally displaced persons. Whether they bring costs or opportunities, all those who are displaced are in need of protection

14 IOHA Finland 2018 – Call for Papers – June 2018

The International Oral History Association is pleased to announce the call for papers for the next congress in 2018. The XX IOHA Congress will be held from June 18 to 20, 2018 in Jyväskylä, Finland. The congress is hosted by the University of Jyväskylä, the Finnish Literature Society, and the Finnish Oral History Network. The theme of the XX IOHA Congress is Memory and Narration.

The main focus of the congress is on the complex and multidimensional nature of oral history. Oral history and life story research can be carried out from numerous perspectives. We invite papers that address the methodological issues related to the production and analysis of oral histories and life stories. We especially encourage contributions related to oral history sources as narratives/narration and applications of methodological theories and practices.

We therefore look forward to receiving abstracts on the following themes:

- Archived oral history
- Personal and shared narratives
- Transgenerational memory

- Class, gender, age and memory
- Traditions, folklore and history
- Oral history and different disciplines
- New waves of oral history
- Oral history, theory and ethics
- Oral history sources as narratives
- Oral history and narrative theory

FELLOWSHIP/SCHOLARSHIP/INTERNSHIP

1 The UNICEF Internship Programme offers qualified and eligible students at both Headquarters (HQ) and Country Offices (CO) the unique opportunity to acquire direct practical experience in UNICEF's work and the United Nations system under the direct supervision of experienced UNICEF staff.

How can you make a difference?

The Office of the Ombudsman for United Nations funds and programmes (the "Office"), serving UNICEF as well UNDP, UNFPA, UNOPS and UN Women, is established as an informal pillar of the system of administration of justice within the UN to make available the services of impartial and independent persons to address the work-related issues of staff members and non-staff personnel of the UN funds and programmes.

The Office is looking for an intern to support the team in carrying out the two activities described below.

1. Support to the Office's mediation training:

- Under the supervision of the ombudsman the intern will be involved in the preparation of the Office's mediation training materials.

2. Support to the Office's outreach and advocacy:

- Under the supervision of the Ombudsman Specialist the intern will assist with outreach activities such as preparing and editing texts, articles and presentations and contributing to the Office's website.

To qualify as a champion for every child you will have...

(1) Be enrolled in a graduate school programme on conflict management and alternative dispute resolution, ideally with focus on mediation (second university degree or equivalent, or higher); or

(2) Have graduated with a university degree as defined in (1) above no longer than one year before commencing the internship.

4 Peace and Security Intern - World Federation of United Nations Associations \(WFUNA\) - New York, NY 10017 Internship – Summer 2018

General overview

The World Federation of United Nations Associations (WFUNA) is a global non-profit organization working for a stronger and more effective United Nations. Established in 1946, we represent and coordinate a membership of over 100 United Nations Associations and their thousands of members. We work to build a better world by strengthening and improving the United Nations, through the engagement of people – global citizens - who share a global mindset and support international cooperation. Our organization has offices at the United Nations in both New York and Geneva, and hosts interns in both locations. www.wfuna.org.

The Peace and Security intern will assist WFUNA's Peace and Security Senior Officer with the organization's Peace and Security related work. In addition, the intern will have general WFUNA's staff duties. This position is based in WFUNA's New York office and applicants must have a valid US Visa.

6 Government Accountability Office \(GAO\) Experiential \(16wks\) opportunity in Washington DC

The U.S. Government Accountability Office (GAO) is an independent, nonpartisan agency that works for Congress. Often called the "congressional watchdog," GAO investigates how the federal government spends taxpayer dollars.

Our Mission is to support the Congress in meeting its constitutional responsibilities and to help improve the performance and ensure the accountability of the federal government for the benefit of the American people. We provide Congress with timely information that is objective, fact-based, nonpartisan, no ideological, fair, and balanced.

Our Core Values of accountability, integrity, and reliability are reflected in all of the work we do. We operate under strict professional standards of review and referencing; all facts and analyses in our work are thoroughly checked for accuracy. In addition, our audit policies are consistent with the Fundamental Auditing Principles (Level 3) of the International Standards of Supreme Audit Institutions.

Our Work is done at the request of congressional committees or subcommittees or is mandated by public laws or committee reports. We also undertake research under the authority of the Comptroller General. We support congressional oversight by

- auditing agency operations to determine whether federal funds are being spent efficiently and effectively;
- investigating allegations of illegal and improper activities;
- reporting on how well government programs and policies are meeting their objectives;
- performing policy analyses and outlining options for congressional consideration; and
- issuing legal decisions and opinions, such as bid protest rulings and reports on agency rules.

We advise Congress and the heads of executive agencies about ways to make government more efficient, effective, ethical, equitable and responsive.

Our work leads to laws and acts that improve government operations, saving the government and taxpayers billions of dollars.

GAO is consistently ranked one of Best Places to Work in the Federal Government on the Partnership for Public Service's annual list.

This opportunity is available in the summer and Fall.

7 Dissertation Grants

Dissertation grants of up to $5,000 support current graduate students whose scholarship focuses on free societies and the ideas, institutions, and values that contribute to maximizing well-being.

The Charles Koch Foundation is accepting research grant proposals from current doctoral students who are writing dissertations that investigate free societies and the ideas, values, and institutions that maximize well-being. Proposals will be considered for dissertations across a variety of disciplines that examine foundational, system-level, and applied research questions. Accepted dissertation proposals may be awarded up to $5,000 in grant funding, with the possibility of renewal, as well as additional resources to expand doctoral candidates' educational opportunities and career development.

Notification Process

All prospective grantees will be notified of the outcome of the grant evaluation process. The Foundation's goal with every proposal is to communicate decisions as quickly as possible.
