"Self-care Seminar": Trauma-informed Yoga
5:00 pm- 6:00 pm
This workshop is designed to acknowledge self-care in the workplace. Often times, working in the conflict resolution field leaves many feeling drained, stressed and overworked. One must be able to take care of themselves if they seek to take care of others. In this workshop, you will learn to find the signs of trauma (emotional and physical) in your co-workers or yourself, while finding remedies that are simple, easy, and effective through the alternative healing modality of yoga. Jacqui Kulaga is a certified trauma informed yoga practitioner, specializing in violence and trauma. Come as you are. We will learn breathing techniques and simple asanas. Comfortable clothes are recommended, but not necessary.
Presenter: Jacqueline Kulaga

1:30 pm – 3pm
Presenter: Dr. Stephen Ross Levitt

Social Justice Roundtable
Many communities and organizations declare themselves to be inclusive, but too often they do not and cannot seem to demonstrate how they are inclusive. Others seek to be truly inclusive, but do not know what to do to make that happen.
Come join us for an open-discussion about models of inclusion, and how inclusion can be modeled in communities and organizations. Let’s start working on a model and a plan!
Presenter: Dr. Judith McKay
4:30 pm – 6:00 pm

Dissertation Review Prep:
This training helps students with the dissertation manuscript and how to prepare the document for dissertation review. It teaches students how to use Microsoft Word and how to avoid short falls which will hinder their success in preparing their document. The training provides an opportunity to address questions and concerns about their manuscript and the dissertation review process. This training is not restricted to those in or close to the dissertation review process; it is open to all students who would like to gain a better understanding of Microsoft Word and how to prepare documents for class assignment submissions.
Presenter: Robert Teachener
4:30 pm – 5:30 pm

Keynote Dinner & Presentation: “Conflict Intelligence and Systemic Wisdom: Meta-Competencies for Navigating Difference in a Complex, Dynamic World”
6:00 pm - 8:30 pm
A hundred years of scientific study of conflict resolution has provided a host of useful competencies and skills conducive to the constructive management of conflict. However, our world is becoming increasingly more complex, dynamic and unpredictable, and our models and methods for conflict resolution are particularly challenged in the face of these trends. In this talk, Dr. Coleman will be presenting a new integrative framework to address the challenges that combines from research in complexity science, psychology, and peace and conflict studies to offer a set of meta-competencies for resolving conflict and promoting more constructive and peaceful relations in our rapidly changing world.
Presenter: Dr. Peter Coleman

Dissertation Bootcamp (Open to all PhD students)
These 2 sessions will cover all you need to know for a successful dissertation process. It is never too early to start thinking about your dissertation. It is to your advantage to get an idea of the dissertation process and all that it requires so you can be ahead of the curve when you get to the point of writing your dissertation. Among the topics we’ll discuss in these sessions are: the logistics of the process, guiding you through all the paper work required, picking your dissertation committee, how to go from an idea to a topic, a proposal, and a final dissertation. Also, the use of Turn-it-in, getting help from a librarian and post dissertation activities. Most importantly you will make connections with people that will literally save you from insanity.
